

Creating Enviable Lives for People with Developmental Disabilities.

Futures & Estate Planning

- ◆ How will your child with a developmental disability be cared for?
- ◆ Where will your child live?
- ◆ Who knows your child’s required level of care, his abilities, likes and dislikes, therapists, doctors or friends?

Now is the time to put your plans in writing!

DID YOU KNOW . . .

- ◆ A properly designed Special Needs Trust can help you preserve your child’s benefits and allow your child to receive his/her inheritance
- ◆ There are many creative ways your family can develop a plan for living arrangements for your child
- ◆ A Letter of Intent can help you organize your thoughts on paper
- ◆ Medical decisions can be made without guardianship
- ◆ If you do not have a will, probate laws will determine how your estate is divided among your heirs
